

enemy together. Our enemies need to know they cannot wait us out, that America will be strong.

If we fail to deliver this message and to commit the troops General McChrystal has asked for, the dangers are very real. Let there be no doubt, from everything we have heard, everything we have learned, if we do not send the additional troops, if we try to stand off and use a fire-and-fallback policy—that failed in Iraq until we brought in the counterinsurgency strategy that our NATO allies tried without success in Afghanistan—not only will the Taliban come back in, they will come over the mountains, and Taliban rule will be established in Afghanistan. With Taliban rule comes their sometimes witting, sometimes unwitting allies—al-Qaida—which will use it to establish the same kind of base they had in Afghanistan prior to the 9/11 attacks. Failure will embolden the enemies of freedom who launched the attacks of 9/11 from Afghanistan.

I call on President Obama to end this indecision, commit to his own strategy—which he announced so powerfully last March and which I was proud to support on the floor—and show the American people and our allies the same resolve and determination I heard in his words this past spring. He said:

Our spirit is stronger and cannot be broken; you cannot outlast us, and we will defeat you.

It is time we delivered on that promise.

CZECH AND SLOVAK REPUBLICS

Madam President, I also have a statement in recognition of the tremendous success that has occurred in the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic since 1989. When the Soviet Union dissolved in 1989, the people of Czechoslovakia joined together to oust communism and adopt democracy.

We have seen tremendous success in the past 20 years. Remarkable changes have taken place, as both the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic have sought and achieved membership in NATO and moved to the kind of progress and peace we expected for them.

In 1989 the former Soviet Union was in the final throes of a slow demise which concluded in 1991. Many of the former Soviet republics were in a state of uncertainty as the situation deteriorated further.

In the fall and winter of 1989, the people of Czechoslovakia joined many other recently separated republics and chose to oust communism and adopt democracy through the Velvet Revolution. Twenty years ago the country then known as Czechoslovakia freed itself of communist control, instituted democratic elections, and set out to adapt its command economy to the free market.

The remarkable swiftness which ushered out the former government while maintaining relative order and peace was inspiring to the world as we watched apprehensively the events unfolding. Czechoslovakia's move away from communism and toward greater political independence, led to the eventual separation of the country into the current Czech Republic and Slovak Republic.

During the past 20 years, remarkable change has taken place as both the Czech Republic and Slovak Republic have sought and achieved membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, NATO. The Czech Republic was accepted as a member of NATO in 1999, as was the Slovak Republic in 2004. Both nations are now formal members of both NATO and the United Nations, and their military units now contribute to important missions throughout the globe and continue to play a strategic role in the region.

Furthermore, the Czech Republic has a local tie near to my heart associated with its NATO admission. The documents of admission were signed at the Presidential library of Missouri's own President Truman in Independence, MO. As we work to pursue our mutual interests, I wish both the Czech Republic and the Slovak Republic continued success and prosperity as we work toward mutual goals.

Madam President, I yield the floor.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate stands in recess until 2:15 p.m.

Thereupon, the Senate, at 12:39 p.m., recessed until 2:15 p.m. and reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. CARPER).

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Michigan is recognized.

Ms. STABENOW. Mr. President, I wish to speak both about the substance of the amendment in front of us that I understand Senator REID and the distinguished chair of the Finance Committee, Senator BAUCUS, have put forward, the substance of it and supporting it, and also on the time it has taken us to get to this point, which is of tremendous concern to me. I know it is also to many other people, certainly people in the great State of Michigan, which I represent.

I believe we are on week 5 of trying to extend unemployment benefits for people who, through no fault of their own, have lost their jobs, are looking for work, trying to hold things together, trying to keep a roof over their families' heads and keep food on the table, and Michigan is getting cold, so the heat is coming on. They are trying to do that while looking for a job.

People want to work. People in Michigan work and they want to work. They are skilled and they are ready to work. We know that for every one job available, there are six people trying to get that job. So we are in an extremely difficult time. That is why we extended unemployment benefits in the Recovery Act. I thank our President. We had challenges under the previous President in being able to do that. President Obama put that forward, and I am grateful for his continual support and all of our colleagues who supported that.

But now we find that even as things very slowly begin to turn in the economy, every day we still have 70,000 people who are going off of their unemployment insurance benefits and they still cannot find a job. These are middle-class Americans who have played by the rules, and what is happening is not their fault. They are trying to keep things going until they can find a job.

We have now spent weeks and weeks trying to get to this bill. Since we started debating this on the Senate floor, as of today, 186,000 more people have lost their benefits and are trying to figure out what in the world they are going to do for their families. That is the situation we are in.

We have in front of us a very important amendment that has been worked on on a bipartisan basis. I congratulate everyone who worked on this together. I hope we will pass this quickly and move on and send the right message to people in this country that we get it, that we understand what is going on for families.

Let me speak about the amendment, and then I will speak about the process.

The amendment would allow an extension of 14 weeks for anyone who is currently unemployed in their State and qualifies for unemployment insurance and an additional 6 weeks, totaling 20 weeks, for people in my great State who have been hit too hard for too long. So we need to get this passed.

There are other provisions that have been combined with this. One of the other successes—in fact, I am proud, as the original author of cash for clunkers, to have Congress talk about that and the first-time home buyers tax credit. That has helped the economy. We know there is an expiration of the first-time home buyers $8,000 tax credit, so we extend that. There are other provisions in there as well.

There is another provision I am proud to have helped champion in the Finance Committee and now in this legislation, which is to allow companies that are struggling in this economy to keep themselves going, to keep people employed, to keep their lights on, and to be able to get immediate help with the net operating loss carryback—it is the way they calculate their losses—which will allow capital to immediately flow for small, medium, and large companies that are cash-strapped. That capital will help businesses be able to hire people, purchase equipment, or to turn their businesses around to be able to keep things going and keep their businesses going. That is in this provision as well. It is an important bipartisan effort.
